CELTIC COIN ARTICLES

from the Chris Rudd Catalogues

Edited by Elizabeth Cottam & Daphne Nash Briggs

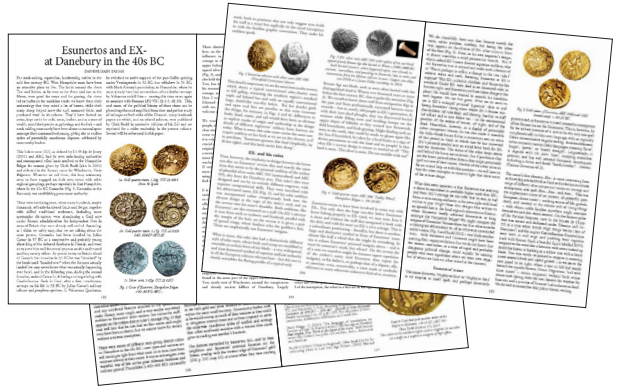

*Duck Helmet silver unit of an Eastern tribe
c.50-40 BC, Ancient British Coins 2380.
Extremely Rare.*

For eighteen years every issue of the Chris Rudd catalogue contained at least one academic or popular article on a particular subject. This book brings all 154 articles together plus four brand new articles. An invaluable and unique body of research for collectors, academics and anyone interested in Celtic coins.

Chris Rudd

Now printed in larger A4 format with hundreds of new illustrations and full colour photographs. Articles covering Agricola, Ale Sca, Amminius, ATT, Boduoc, Boudica, Cunobelinus Biga, Dumnoc Tigir Seno, Durotrigan cast bronze, South Ferriby staters, Solidu and Vosenos from contributors including Miranda Aldhouse-Green, Rainer Kretz, John Hooker, Jeffrey May, Paul Robinson, John Talbot and Robert Van Arsdell plus Philip de Jersey's incomparable series of articles 'Ancient British Kings'. Also included are four brand new articles: 'Coriomandu, king of the Dobunni' by John Sills; 'Esunertos and Ex': an account of the recently uncovered ruler and his contemporaries by Daphne Nash Briggs plus 'The Caratacus Stater' and 'Was Anarevito a slave trader?' by Chris Rudd. A4 hardback, 424 pages, over 1400 enlarged coin photos, many in colour, more than 400 other illustrations and over 70 maps and tables. £85 + p&p direct from Chris Rudd.

Some brief quotes about this book

Highly insightful and will surely inspire further speculation on this extensive body of evidence... will undoubtedly be widely used alongside the now indispensable Ancient British Coins [ABC]... an invaluable source of factual evidence and intelligent speculation.

REVD PROFESSOR MARTIN HENIG

A treasure chest of thoughtful observation and new ideas, illustrated with brilliant images of the coins... essential reading for anyone interested Celtic coins and the British Iron Age.

PROFESSOR SIR BARRY CUNLIFFE

An absolutely invaluable record... a phenomenal resource.

PHIL MUSSELL

Within this diverse collection of articles, we find the seeds of some of the most important recent contributions to Iron Age numismatics: the catalogues, books and articles of the authors represented. As a forum for presenting new idea, thoughts and new discoveries, the Chris Rudd Catalogues have provided an invaluable service to the subject for nearly two decades.

DR IAN LEINS

A wealth of information about a fascinating range of topics, written in an entertaining and easy to read format...is essential reading for anyone interested in Celtic Coins, and a must for any numismatic library.

DR DAVID ROBINSON

An incredibly detailed, wholly unmatched and utterly indispensable body of research material...a must have for anyone interested in archaeology, Celtic coins and the beginnings of British history.
